

ABSTRACT

Methods and systems for generating and providing information representative of market pricing for products and services, and in particular to systems and methods that provide buyers and sellers information representative of the current market value for a product, including a new and used product.